

The Chicago Council of Lawyers Evaluation Report:
Judges Seeking Retention in the November 2022 General Election and Judicial Candidates Seeking to Fill Judicial Vacancies

September 15, 2022

The Chicago Council of Lawyers, in this report, releases its evaluation of the judges seeking retention in the November 8th general election. We also include in this report our evaluation of the candidates who won their primary election held in June 2022 and who are on the November ballot.

EVALUATION METHODOLOGY FOR RETENTION CANDIDATES

The criteria for the Council’s evaluations are whether the retention candidate has demonstrated the ability to serve on the relevant court in the following categories:

- fairness, including sensitivity to diversity and bias
- legal knowledge and skills (competence)
- integrity
- experience
- diligence
- impartiality
- judicial temperament
- respect for the rule of law
- independence from political and institutional influences
- professional conduct
- character
- community service

If a candidate has demonstrated the ability to perform the work required of a judge in all of these areas, the Council assigns a rating of “qualified.” If a candidate has demonstrated excellence in most of these areas, the Council assigns a rating of “well qualified.” If a candidate has demonstrated excellence in all of these areas, the Council assigns a rating of “highly qualified.” If a candidate has not demonstrated that he or she meets all of the criteria evaluated by the Council, the Council assigns a rating of “not qualified.” As part of the evaluation process, we require candidates to provide us with detailed information about their backgrounds, including any complaints filed against them with the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission (“ARDC”) or the Judicial Inquiry Board (“JIB”).

In conducting these evaluations, the Council has participated in a joint investigation and interview process with the Alliance of Bar Associations for Judicial Screening (“Alliance”). The Alliance includes the following bar associations: Arab American Bar Association, Asian American Bar Association, Black Women Lawyers Association, Chicago Council of Lawyers, Cook County Bar Association, Decalogue Society of Lawyers, Hellenic Bar Association, Hispanic Lawyers’ Association of Illinois, Illinois State Bar Association, Lesbian and Gay Bar Association of Chicago, Puerto Rican Bar Association, and the Women’s Bar Association of Illinois.

The Council’s evaluation process includes:

- (1) a review of a written informational questionnaire provided to the Alliance by the candidate, including details of the candidate’s career and professional development and information on any complaints filed against the candidate with the JIB or the ARDC;
- (2) a review of the candidate’s written responses to the supplemental essay questionnaire;
- (3) interviews of judges, attorneys, and others with personal knowledge about the candidate, including those who have and those who have not been referred to the Alliance by the candidate, and not restricted to Council members;
- (4) a review of the candidate’s professional written work, where available;
- (5) an interview of the candidate done jointly with the Alliance;
- (6) review of any information concerning the candidate provided by the ARDC or the JIB;
- (7) a review of any other information available from public records, such as the Board of Election Commissioners and prosecutorial agencies; and
- (8) an evaluation of all the above materials by the Council’s Judicial Evaluation Committee;
- (9) submission of the proposed evaluation and write-up to the candidate prior to its public release, to provide an opportunity for comment, correction, or reconsideration.

- (10) the candidate is given a reasonable period of time to submit a written appeal of the Council’s rating and written findings. The appeal is a written response to concerns discussed in the proposed write-up. The appeal is reviewed by both members of the original committee and by individuals who work with the Committee exclusively for appeals. Appellate decision-making is done by consensus.

The Council places special importance on interviews with attorneys who practice before the judge, particularly those who were not referred to the Council by the candidate. Most evaluations are based on information gathered and interviews held during the few months just prior to the general election.

In evaluating candidates, the Council expresses written reasons for its conclusions. Without knowing the reason for a recommendation concerning a candidate, the public cannot use the bar’s evaluations intelligently to draw its own conclusions.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE RETENTION ELECTIONS

The retention elections provide the voter with an opportunity to remove those judges whose judicial performance has been, in some respect, unsatisfactory. Retention elections provide the only practical opportunity for the voters as a whole to focus on the performance of judges, with a realistic opportunity to defeat those candidates who deserve to be defeated.

EVALUATION METHODOLOGY FOR JUDICIAL CANDIDATES IN CONTESTED ELECTIONS

Judicial candidates seeking election must run for specific vacancies. Candidates seeking election to the Circuit Court – which is the County’s trial-level court for both civil and criminal matters – may run in either a countywide or a subcircuit race. Legislation creating the subcircuits provides that approximately one-third of the judges are elected by voters of the entire County, and each of the remaining judges elected by voters runs in one of fifteen geographical districts into which the County has been arbitrarily divided. Once elected, there is no distinction between a “countywide” judge and a “subcircuit” judge. Either kind can be assigned to any judicial post in the County.

The Council rates candidates as “highly qualified,” “well qualified,” “qualified,” or “not qualified.” If a candidate refuses to submit his or her credentials to the Council, that candidate is rated “not recommended” unless the Council is aware of credible information that would justify a “not qualified” rating. Because we believe a willingness to participate in bar association and other public evaluations is a key indicator of fitness for public office, no candidate who refuses to be screened can be found “qualified.”

We apply higher standards to candidates for the Supreme Court and the Appellate Court. Because these Courts establish legal precedents that bind the lower courts, their work has a broad impact on the justice system. Moreover, qualities of scholarship and writing ability are more important to the work of the Supreme and Appellate Court justices than they are to satisfactory performance as a trial judge.

The Council does not evaluate candidates based on their substantive views of political or social issues. Nor do we take into account the particular race in which a candidate is running or the candidates against whom a candidate is running. We apply a uniform standard for all countywide and subcircuit elections because judges elected through either method can be assigned to any judicial position in the Circuit Court.

It should be noted that a lawyer might be performing well or even very well without being qualified to be a judge. A good lawyer may be unqualified to be a judge, for instance, because of a narrow range of prior experience, limited trial experience, or limited work doing legal research and writing. A lawyer may have the temperament and intelligence to be a judge without yet having worked in a position that would allow the candidate to demonstrate that capacity. Accordingly, it should be recognized and expected that we will rate some good lawyers “not qualified.”

Retention Elections (all ballots)

Qualified

The Hon. James L. Allegretti was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1978. Since 2016, he has served as a Judge on the Circuit Court of Cook County, where since 2019, he has been assigned to Room 204 in Skokie, Second Municipal District. There, he hears a mixed civil call, both bench and jury, of torts, evictions, and administrative review. From 2005 to 2011, Mr. Allegretti served as the Fourth Ward Alderman for the city of Park Ridge. From 2001 to 2016, he was the Principal in the firm of Allegretti and Associates, focusing on Plaintiff’s personal injury cases and petitioners’ workers compensation representation. He has practiced as a solo practitioner or in a small firm handling traffic, DUI, personal injury and workers’ compensation cases since 1978.

Judge Allegretti is reported to be knowledgeable about the law and he is considered to have good legal ability. Most lawyers reported that Judge Allegretti is even keeled and respectful. A few respondents, however, noted that he can be demeaning with tenants in eviction proceedings. Overall, however, respondents say he is a good judge. The Council finds him Qualified for the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Robert Balanoff was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1982. In 2020, he was appointed Acting Presiding Judge of the Child Protection Division of Cook County. For over 15 years prior to that, he was a Judge in the division, where he adjudicated claims of abuse and neglect of minor children. Prior to his election to the bench, Judge Balanoff was in private practice.

Judge Balanoff is considered to be a highly capable judge who was praised for his technology skills during the pandemic, He is praised for his legal knowledge and legal ability. As the Acting Presiding Judge, he is praised for listening to advocates for reform ideas. He is generally reported to be respectful and fair to litigants. He is also reported to have good judicial temperament. The Council finds him Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Steven James Bernstein was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1971. Since 2010, he has served as a Judge on the Circuit Court of Cook County, where since 2014, he has been assigned to the Juvenile Justice Division. There, he hears juvenile justice (criminal) cases from the Second, Third, Fourth, and Fifth Districts. Before joining the bench he was in private practice and served as the Acting General Counsel for the Illinois Criminal Justice Authority.

Judge Bernstein is reported to be knowledgeable about the law, and is praised for hearing all sides of a matter. Attorneys who have both lost and won in front of him say that he is fair and respectful to those who appear before him. He is praised for being empathetic to juveniles who appear before him, even when he is stern with parents or representatives of government agencies appearing in his courtroom. The Council finds him Qualified for the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Kathleen Marie Burke was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1989. She was elected to the bench in 2004. She is assigned to the Fifth Municipal District. Prior to becoming a judge, she was a litigator with Johnson & Bell with a focus on medical malpractice cases.

Judge Burke is considered to have very good legal ability who issues thoughtful decisions and is exceptionally knowledgeable about civil procedure. She is praised for her temperament. She is respectful of both lawyers and litigants. Judge Burke is reported to have good courtroom management skills. The Council finds her Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Charles Patrick Burns was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1981. He was elected to the bench in 1998 and is assigned to the Criminal Division. He also presides over the R.A.P. and W.R.A.P. Drug Call. Prior to his election, he was an Assistant Cook County State's Attorney. Judge Burns has taught Graduate and Undergraduate classes at Lewis University on Justice, Law, and Public Safety studies, and has authored a number of published works, including as a Topic Writer with the Illinois Judicial Benchbook, as well as articles in the Illinois Bar Journal, the Duke University Journal of Law and Technology, and the Loyola University Chicago Law Journal.

Judge Burns is considered to have good legal ability. Attorneys generally find him to be fair to lawyers and litigants. However, many respondents reported that he can be quick to anger and combative on the bench. Many say they are willing to accept this behavior only because he is an otherwise good judge. The National Drug Court Institute awarded his problem solving court program a national mentor court designation in November 2021. The three-year mentor court designation has been awarded to this program three times since Judge Burns presided. He has formed partnerships resulting in housing vouchers for participants in the drug call, and has established a partnership with Cabrini Green Legal Aid to provide no cost expungement and record sealing for (W)RAP graduates. The Council finds him Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Bonita Coleman was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1992. She was elected to the bench in 2010 and is currently assigned to the Domestic Relations Division in Markham. Before becoming a judge she was in private practice.

Judge Coleman is considered to have good legal ability with a good knowledge of the law. She is especially praised for her courtroom management skills. She has a good temperament and is particularly patient with self-represented litigants. In 2016, the Council noted that there was a mixed response to whether she is fair to both men and women who appear before her. During this evaluation, some lawyers say she can be dismissive of domestic violence allegations – that she requires an excessive amount of evidence before she will order protections for alleged victims of abuse. On balance, the Council finds her Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court

Not Recommended

The Hon. Ann Finley Collins did not participate in the evaluation process. The Council finds her Not Recommended for retention to the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Alison C. Conlon was admitted to the Illinois bar in 2000. She was appointed to the bench in 2015 and elected in 2016. Currently, she is assigned to the Chancery Department, General Chancery Section. She began her legal career as a law clerk for Judge Charles Kocoras of the federal district court, and then went on to become an Associate and Partner with the law firm of Wildman Harrold. She then joined Barnes and Thornburg as a partner. She did tort and commercial litigation for both firms. She maintained an active pro bono practice, as well.

Judge Conlon is reported to be well prepared and thoughtful. She is considered knowledgeable with good legal ability. She is respectful and fair to all parties. She is praised for her temperament and is reported to be a calming influence in the courtroom. Overall, she is considered to have a good judicial temperament and is praised for her diligence and punctuality. The Council finds her Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Maureen E. Connors was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1979. She currently serves as Justice on the Illinois Appellate Court, where she was appointed in 2010. She became an Associate Judge in 1988 and was elected to the bench in 1994. Previously, she had been an assistant general attorney at the Chicago Park District from 1983 to 1988 and an attorney with Klafner & Burke from 1979 to 1985.

Judge Connors is considered to have good legal ability, and is well prepared for oral arguments.

She is an active questioner during oral argument, and is praised for her fairness. She is praised overall for her judicial temperament and for the quality, thoroughness, and fairness of her written opinions. The Council finds her Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Qualified

From 2005 to 2016, she served as an Assistant Cook County Public Defender, where beginning in 2009 she was assigned to the felony trial division..

Judge De La Rosa is praised for her legal knowledge and ability. She is reported to have good temperament, and is reported to be both punctual and diligent on the bench. The Council finds her Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Well Qualified

The Hon. Mathias William Delort was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1985. He currently serves as a Justice on the Illinois Appellate Court, where he was elected in 2012. He has served both as presiding justice of several divisions of that court and as chair of the court's Mediation Committee. In 2007, he was appointed an Associate Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County and served almost exclusively in the Chancery Division of that court. From 1998 to 2007, Justice Delort was an Associate and Shareholder practicing Local Government, Education and Election Law at Robbins Schwartz et al. From 1988 to 1998 he was an Associate and Partner at Odelson & Sterk Ltd., and from 1985 to 1988 he worked as a sole practitioner with a general practice. He is a primary author of the benchbook for judges in the foreclosure call. He is also the author of several IICLE chapters for lawyers.

Justice Delort is a highly respected Jurist who is considered to have excellent legal ability. He is reported to be well prepared during oral arguments. His opinions are praised as being thorough and well-reasoned, The Council finds him Well Qualified for retention to the Appellate Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Daniel Patrick Duffy was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1995. He was appointed to the Circuit Court in 2014 and is currently assigned to the Law Division, Calendar 1, Tax & Miscellaneous Remedies. Before becoming a judge, he was an attorney with several private firms doing a variety of matters including criminal defense, commercial litigation, and insurance litigation.

Judge Duffy is reported to have good legal ability and knowledge for his current assignment. He is considered to be respectful to litigants and is fair to all parties. He is praised for his judicial temperament and is regarded as being both punctual and diligent. Since he was last evaluated, Judge Duffy appears to have improved his judicial temperament substantially. The Council finds him Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Well Qualified

The Hon. Jerry A. Esrig was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1978. He was first appointed to the Circuit Court by the Illinois Supreme Court in 2013. He lost a Primary election in 2014. He was appointed to the Circuit Court by the Illinois Supreme Court for another interim term in 2014 and was elected to the bench in 2016. He is currently assigned to the Law Division, Calendar S, Commercial Calendar Section. Prior to becoming a judge, he was a Partner with a small firm, focusing on sophisticated personal injury and commercial litigation matters.

Respondents spoke exceptionally highly of Judge Esrig's legal knowledge and ability. He is praised for his preparation and willingness to do the research necessary to acquire the necessary knowledge of the issues being litigated before him. He is also praised for his integrity and his judicial temperament was generally described as very good. He is considered punctual and diligent on the bench and respondents generally stated that Judge Esrig's orders were thorough, well-done, and issues in a timely manner. The Council finds him Well Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Highly Qualified

The Hon. Timothy C. Evans was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1969. He currently serves as the Chief Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County and has previously served as the Presiding Judge of the Domestic Relations Division. He was first elected to the bench in 1992 and was elected to the position of Chief Judge in 2001. Before taking the bench, he was a sole practitioner. Judge Evans was also an assistant corporation counsel for the City of Chicago and had served as a floor leader for Mayor Harold Washington and as an Alderman for the 4th Ward.

As Chief Judge, he does not hear cases, but sees to the administration of the courts. Chief Judge Evans created a domestic violence division of the Cook County Circuit Court, and recently convened a Task Force to identify needed reforms for that division. He re-instituted a pretrial services program and changed procedures so that bond hearings since 2008 are conducted in person, rather than via teleconferencing. This resulted in better due process protections. He has overseen the creation of several community courts which employ principals of restorative justice. In 2017 he issued an administrative order restricting the amount of money bond which could be imposed – resulting in a significant reduction in the Cook County jail population while 2017-2019 statistics showed no significant increase in Cook County crime.

Advocates say he is cooperating fully in preparing the Court for the end of money bond which is mandated by Illinois legislation to begin in January 2023, He has also issued an administrative order stopping Cook County judges from denying a public defender to a defendant without first conducting an indigence hearing.

Chief Judge Evans has also overseen the implementation of a court recording system in eviction courts and worked to ensure that judges recorded their eviction proceedings conducted by Zoom. Some say that he was too slow in moving the Circuit Court to a virtual operation during the pandemic, but others say that after delays at the outset, the Cook County Circuit Court made the necessary changes. The Council finds him Highly Qualified for retention.

Qualified

The Hon. Rossana P. Fernandez was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1997. She is currently assigned to the Domestic Relations Division in the Third Municipal District. She was appointed to the bench by the Illinois Supreme Court in 2015 and elected as a Circuit Court Judge in 2016. Previously, she had been a Partner at Sanchez and Daniels, where she handled personal injury litigation. She had also worked at Eannace Lowery & Meade as an Associate Attorney.

Judge Fernandez has extensive legal knowledge and ability. She is praised for her opinion writing skills. However, there are mixed reviews on the issue of temperament and court management. Many lawyers praised her ability to control a courtroom while being respectful. Others criticize her for being inflexible and rigid in managing her courtroom and applying courtroom procedures in Domestic Relations and Domestic Violence cases, which, they say sometimes leads to questionable outcomes. Many lawyers praise her temperament and how she addresses person in her courtroom. But many other respondents say she is sometimes rude to litigants and lawyers. Because of the wide disparity of views, Judge Fernandez's evaluation presents a very close call. The reports of problems with Judge Fernandez's handling of her call are credible and concerning. Ultimately, however, the Council credits reports that Judge Fernandez is a hardworking and caring judge who is capable of improvement. On balance, the Council finds her Qualified for retention.

Qualified

The Hon. Carolyn Joan Gallagher was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1982. She was elected as a Circuit Court Judge in 2016 and is currently assigned to the Probate Division, Calendar 2, Decedent Estates. She was elected to the bench in 1980 and currently serves as Interim Acting Presiding Judge in the Chancery Division, Calendar 12, General Chancery Section. Previously, she was the Administrative Presiding Judge of the Resource Section of the Juvenile Justice and Child Protection Department. Judge Hall has taught and lectured at a large number of schools and conferences, including Loyola University Chicago School of Law, DePaul School of Law, and the Illinois Administrative Law Conference.

Judge Hall is widely praised as an exceptionally knowledgeable and diligent jurist. She is considered to have an excellent judicial demeanor and demonstrates a devotion to diversity, inclusion, and equity through her community activities both individually and as a representative of the Cook County judiciary. The Council finds her Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Carrie Hamilton was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1996. She was appointed to the bench by the Illinois Supreme Court in 2015 and elected as a Circuit Court Judge in 2016. She is currently assigned to the Civil Section in the Sixth Municipal District. Previously, she was an Assistant United States Attorney who had prosecuted a number of high visibility cases in Chicago.

Judge Hamilton is considered to have good legal ability. She is a former federal prosecutor who now hears civil section cases, and respondents say she has made the transition well. She reportedly learned the law quickly and is now praised for her handling of even complex matters which appear before her. Judge Hamilton is praised for her courtroom management, and for her temperament. The Council finds her Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. Maureen O'Donoghue Hannon was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1991. She was elected to the bench in 2016 and is currently assigned to the County Division. Previously, she was an Assistant Cook County State's Attorney working in the Conflict Counsel Unit, where she was responsible for the defense of Cook County Offices, Elected and Appointed Officials, and Cook County employees in various areas of state and federal civil litigation.

Judge Hannon is considered to have good legal ability with a good command of the law in a call which involves a variety of types of matters. She is reported to have good judicial temperament. The Council finds her Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Qualified

The Hon. William H. Hooks was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1981. He was appointed to the Circuit Court of Cook County in 2008 and is currently assigned to the Criminal Division. He is also the Judge Presiding for the Criminal Division Veteran's Treatment Court. Before becoming a Circuit Court Judge he was a Judge Advocate in the U.S. Marine Corps and Reserves, where he prosecuted and defended criminal cases. He left active duty in 1985 (though remained in the Reserves for an additional 10 years) and until 1991 practiced civil litigation (mainly insurance defense) with Pretzel & Stouffer, Hinshaw & Culbertson, and Garland W. Watt and Associates. Between 1995 and 2008, he practiced on his own and in partnership with others, concentrating on criminal defense and civil litigation.

Respondents praise Judge Hooks for his legal knowledge and legal ability. He is reported to be knowledgeable and well prepared. He has a reputation for being a mentor to lawyers and to other judges. Most lawyers praise his judicial temperament. Respondents generally praised his punctuality and diligence, and he is particularly praised for his work with his Veterans Court call. This problem solving court provides a probation program for veterans with the help of services provided by the Veterans Administration. Judge Hooks is cited for bringing compassion and assistance to veterans. Judge Hooks is also praised for his community activities and his sensitivity to bias. He is credited for calling out police officers who provide perjured testimony during trials. The Council believes that he is a very good judge and deserves to be retained to the Circuit Court. The Council finds him Qualified for retention to the Circuit Court.

Well Qualified

The Hon. Nathaniel R. Howse, Jr. was admitted to the Illinois Bar in 1976. Since 2009, he has served as a Justice of the Appellate Court of Illinois, First District. He was elected to the Appellate Court in 2012. Prior to that, he served as a Cook County Circuit Court Judge, where he was assigned to the County Division (2001-2009), where he presided over Tax Deed, Real Estate Tax, Civil Forfeiture, and Adoption cases; and the First Municipal District, where he heard supplemental proceedings to enforce judgments as well as extraordinary remedies (2000-2001); served as floater judge on general assignment (1999-2000); and presided over traffic cases (1998-1999).

Judge Howse is considered to have excellent legal ability and is reported to demonstrate a good grasp of complex issues. His written opinions are praised as being well-written, well-reasoned, and thorough. Respondents say he is always well prepared for oral argument.
